BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Friday was a busy evening and night for Mississippi's State Troopers in Hancock County. Some 1,116 citations were written within an 11-hour period State Trooper MSGT. David Kenny said Saturday. "State Troopers conducted an Operation Life Saver operation in Hancock County, it is an old program recently reactivated by Lt. Col. Jimmie Stringer," Kenny said. Kenny continued, "Something had to be done, as fatalities have increased 39% in comparison to the same period last year." "As motorists found out why we were having the roadblocks, their comments were really assuring. Our job is to get the drunks, drug users, habitual driving offenders off our highways and thus reduce the number of fatalities," Kenny said.

There were 36 DUI citations issued during the 11-hour period in Hancock County. The operation's areas included, Highways 90, 607, 53, 43, and Interstate 10. The citations counts were four felony, 471 hazardous violations, 605 non-hazardous violations, and also the 36 DUIs issued, Kenny said. Some 50 Mississippi State Troopers were joined by 30 other law enforcement officers, such as a National Guard Drug Unit, Public Service Commission officers, Bureau of Narcotics, Hancock County Sheriff's deputies, and Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police officers during the operation. "The addition of 70 new troopers to our department gives us a full force for the first time in many years and this enables us to conduct such operations. We had state troopers in Hancock County from across Mississippi last night," Kenny said. Another class of 35 troopers will be added to the force later this year, Kenny added. The troopers were to conduct more operations Saturday evening in Hancock and then move to a two-county operation Saturday night in Harrison and Jackson Counties. A total of 48 headlight violations were included in the citations issued in Hancock. The hazardous violations, which are moving violations, included running stop signs, failure to yield, speeding, reckless driving, careless driving, etc. The non-hazardous were for violations such as expired tags and brake tags, expired licenses, suspended drivers licenses, etc. The felony arrests were drug related. The sheriff's deputies and

Majik Market is robbed

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL
An undisclosed amount of money was recovered by Bay St. Louis police after an armed robbery at 2:45 a.m. Saturday at Majik Market on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis, according to Detective Shane Corr, the arresting officer. Charged with aggravated assault and the robbery was Lamar Wimbley, 26, of 752 B Washington Street, Bay St. Louis. Det. Corr said the suspect went into the store and distracted the female clerk. He took a stick out of his pants, hit her with it and took the money in the register. The clerk was later treated and released at Hancock Medical Center. Shortly after the suspect had fled with the money from the register and a can containing donations for Muscular Dystrophy, Patrolman Kevin Fayard pulled up at the market. He radioed other units and reported the robbery. Officer Paul Cox observed the subject walking in the area of Central Avenue and Carrie Court, Detective Coor

Public hearings set for Tuesday

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Public hearings have been set for Tuesday on three Bay St. Louis properties the city may declare public menaces. The hearings concern properties that city officials have repeatedly asked by cleared of overgrown weeds or excessive numbers of old vehicles. At issue are properties at 241 Ballentine Street, a vacant lot next to 333 St. George Street, and a former gas station in the 300 block of Washington Street. If the properties are declared a menace, city officials will have the necessary cleanup work done and attach the cost to the owners' property tax bills. The hearings are set for a 7 p.m. meeting of City Council in the City Hall Annex.

Large sandbar could renourish shoreline

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis city officials are hoping that a massive sandbar off North Beach Boulevard can be tapped for renourishing the downtown area shoreline. Officials took borings from the 28-acre sandbar Friday, from a rig positioned north of the Bay Bridge. If the quality of the material passes muster, the renourishment project could go out for bids within a matter of weeks. Hancock County officials recently had a 4.4-mile stretch of beach renourished between Washington Street in Bay St. Louis and Dane Street in Waveland. The area between Washington and the bridge, however, wasn't included in that project. City officials had hoped to piggyback the county's project, but couldn't finalize plans for that before the county's contractor left the area. Les Fillingame, who has spearheaded the renourish-

Interest in election lagging

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Hancock County precinct workers may have a long, quiet day ahead Tuesday when primary polls open at 7 a.m. The contests are few and the public interest level appears to be low, thanks in part to a legal tangle that left the election in limbo until last week. As it stands, a contested U.S. Senate race is on the Democrats' ballot, along with several judicial contests. Local Republicans have only one contest on the ballot, with Sen. Trent Lott facing several opponents for the GOP nomination. Many other nominations on the ballots are unopposed. The state Supreme Court cleared the way for the elections to proceed, in a ruling issued last Tuesday. A Hinds County Chancery Court judge previously had barred judicial elections from the ballot, to give the U.S. Justice Department time to rule on the validity of a new state law which will put judicial elections on a nonpartisan basis. "There really hasn't been much interest, and I doubt there will be much turnout. I hope there will be, but I doubt it," said county Democratic Party Executive Committee Chairman Pete Benvenuti. Benvenuti said the question over whether the judicial races would be allowed to proceed is partly to blame for the low-key nature of Tuesday's primaries. The Democratic primary ballot includes a five-way contest for nomination to the U.S. Senate, including candidates Hiram Eastland, Ken Harper, James W. (Boobie) Hunt, Shawn O'Hara and Jorja Pound Turnipseed. U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor is unopposed for nomination for another term, and Chuck McRae is unopposed for nomination to the state Supreme Court, 2nd District, Place 1. Democrats Gene Fair, Louis Fondren and James E. Thomas are in a race for nomination to the Court of Appeals, District 5. William L. (Bill) Stewart, Jason H. Floyd Jr., and J.N. Randall Jr. are in uncontested races for nomination to Chancery Court judgeships, District 8, Places 1, 2 and 3, respectively. Democrats will pick three of six contenders for Circuit Court judgeships, District 2. Contenders are: Norman Breland, Doyle L. Coats, Jerry O. Terry, Kostan N. Vlahos, John Whitfield, and Frank P. Wittman III. Republicans, meanwhile, will pick one of three contenders

Woman jailed in local scam

Wilma G. Coffman, who is accused of operating a telephone marketing scheme in Waveland that took a number of elderly people for more than a million, is presently in the Hancock County jail. She was arrested by local authorities Tuesday and is charged with one count of wire fraud and one count of attempted wire fraud. The maximum sentence on each charge is 5 years in prison, a $10,000 fine or both. She had been arrested, along with 12 other telemarketers, by Slidell police on similar charges in September of last year and was awaiting trial. The scope of the scheme involves three companies that have apparently stolen from hundreds of unsuspecting people around the nation, investigators said. The suspects would call to tell them that they had won a prize and would ask them to

Bed and breakfast approved

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis officials Wednesday approved plans for a bed and breakfast establishment at 828 Meadow Road.

The city Planning and Zoning Commission endorsed a "special exception" to the zoning ordinance, clearing plans for the facility near Casino Magic Drive.

The application from Mike Zuppardo of New Orleans goes to City Council for final action Tuesday.

As with other such facilities, the commission attached a set of stipulations governing the operation. The regulations include requirements that the property remain a dwelling, occupied by an owner or salaried resident manager.

Rooms must be rented on a nightly basis, and breakfast is the only meal served -- and only to overnight guests.

Other rules limit uses of the property, provide for offstreet parking spaces, and govern signs and lights that may be placed on the property.

Fire is under investigation

A Tuesday night fire at 125 Railroad Ave. remains under investigation.

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew B. Lizana said Thursday the department responded to a 9:45 p.m. call to the dwelling, where fire had broken out in the attic.

Lizana said the fire was under control within 12 minutes, but firemen had to remove part of the roof.

No one was at home at the time of the blaze, Lizana said.

Six firemen and a volunteer from East Hancock responded to the fire. "I want to commend the firefighters for doing an excellent job at extinguishing the fire," the chief said.

A goal of 100 units has been set for this drive, so anyone who can donate a unit of blood is urged to come out Wednesday, Rutherford added.

The Hancock County Blood Bank is an agency of the United Way of South Mississippi.

ment program for the city, said Thursday all state and federal permits for the 5,000-foot renourishment plan have been issued, except one needed from the Corps of Engineers to tap the sandbar.

All data concerning the sandbar, including its dimensions and makeup, will be included in the city's request for a Corps permit. Aside from the quality and depth of the sand itself, officials will check to see if it contains any toxicity.

Fillingame said the testing and Corps permit process will take about a month, but the city may decide to call for bids on the project in the interim.

"Hopefully it's as pure as it seems to be from the surface, and not just a silt bed" covered with sand, said Fillingame.

Using the site, he said, will greatly reduce the project's cost because workers won't have to place nearly as much pipeline as was needed for the county's project. The county's contractors tapped a borrow pit much further away from downtown, in the Mississippi Sound.

Costs also would be cut, he said, because the project wouldn't require as large a dredge as the county's contractor provided for that job.

Fillingame said preliminary indications are the sandbar is so large, the city's project will require only about 6 feet off the top of the underwater sandpile. As a side benefit, he said, lowering the level of the sandbar will help recreational boaters navigate the area near the bridge.

The main purpose of the project is to protect the city's waterfront and Beach Boulevard from continuing erosion.

The stretch of waterfront from the bridge to Bay View Court isn't protected by a seawall, and there are fears that continuing erosion will lead to the collapse of the roadway. Even in the area where a seawall stands, erosion underneath the structure has left its integrity in question.

City officials have set aside $500,000 to complete the project.

local police assisted in transporting some of violators to jail.

Participants of Operation Life Saver were fed in the facilities of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis.

The State Troopers used a large mobile home as communication headquarters during the operation which included federal, state and local officers.

Troopers from out of the area are housed in local motels when these operations are conducted, Kenny said.

Mississippi State Troopers will return periodically to each county in the state with Operation Life Saver checks on motorists.

pay taxes on the prize before they received it. When the victims paid up and did not receive the gift, they would be contacted by the same operators and told they could recover their money, for a fee.

Apparently, the operation in Waveland was located near the police station and was set up to look like a catalog service but real activities were behind locked doors.

Files indicate that the scam took in at least 800 people. Police will have to go through boxes of records and more arrests could be made in the case, they said.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Tuesday is a very important election day for Hancock County as there will be a Democratic and a Republican primary.

Important positions such as U.S. Senate, U.S. House of Representatives, Mississippi Supreme Court, Court of Appeals Judge, Chancery Court Judges and Circuit Court Judges will be voted on Tuesday.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

It is very important for every qualified elector to get out and go to the polls on Tuesday.

Don't forget to call on your neighbors. Remind them of the election, and they may even need a ride to the polls.

Vote for the candidates of your choice.

If one looks hard enough, on occasion one can see some odd combinations of wildlife.

Thursday morning on a drive down North Beach I witnessed an odd couple crossing the road.

There was a dove and a box turtle only a few inches apart walking together.

I realize there are many doves in Bay St. Louis, but not too many box turtles.

Every few years I may see one in my neighborhood, but sightings are getting further and further apart.

Several months ago my brother Raymond witnessed a fierce fight under his bird feeder in his back yard.

It was a knock-down roll-around contest between a grey squirrel and large rat.

It seems both animals wanted to claim the territory, and they both put up a good battle Ray told me. They stood up to each other, jumped up and down, and rolled all over the ground.

That was a time he wished he had his camcorder ready.

There are times we can see some odd occurrences with wildlife, if we look hard enough.

A very important blood drawing will be held Wednesday at the Bay St. Louis American Legion home.

The drawing is to be held from 1 to 7 p.m. at the legion home, Green Meadow Road, (off Blue Meadow) Bay St. Louis.

J.D. (Big John) Rutherford, a longtime Hancock County Blood Bank chairman, is 'under the weather' a bit, but is receiving help from many in getting this drawing together.

D.W. North, a faithful helper for many years, dropped by the office a few days ago to make sure we give the drawing publicity.

He said Big John is urging all of his friends, new and old, to please come out Wednesday and donate a unit of blood, if they possibly can.

The American Red Cross needs a big supply of blood along the Mississippi Gulf Coast during the summer months.

If you are able, please help with the blood drive, I know Big John will really appreciate it.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taylor asks EPA secretary to reassess 'Cluster Rule'

As many folks in South Mississippi are aware, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is evaluating data in regard to a combined Air/Water Cluster rule for the U.S. pulp and paper industry.

What does this proposed "Cluster" rule mean? The rule, which was designed to tackle both water and air pollution, would virtually shut down paper mills which are unable to meet the EPA's proposed federal regulation.

Upon learning of the rule's possible adverse effect on Mississippi's pulp and paper industry, I joined several of my colleagues in Congress, including Mississippi Representative Mike Parker, in writing Secretary Brown on Feb. 23.

I urged her to support air and water quality regulations that could be supported by sound scientific principles. However, I was concerned that the agency's proposed rule went far beyond what was necessary to ensure that the environment and the public are protected. And I also questioned the EPA's lack of industry data in their assessment of the situation.

In an April 27 response, Brown said the EPA would evaluate new data, that the paper industry recently provided to the agency. She added that the agency will carefully review any additional data provided during the extended public comment period, to ensure that the agency has the best possible data upon which to base a decision for the final regulation.

My concern lies in the fact that the ultimate outcome of this rule making could have extraordinarily adverse consequences for the paper industry and for its workers and their families.

Preliminary estimates provided by the National Council on Air and Stream Improvements project that the industry could spend at a minimum more than $11.5 billion in capital costs alone to meet the agency's proposed regulations.

Conservatively, this could lead to the closure of over 33 mills, the loss of 21,500 direct mill jobs, and 86,000 additional indirect jobs, for a total of 107,500 jobs lost nationwide. Unfortunately, several of those jobs lost could be in Mississippi.

I am all in favor of reasonable rules which are balanced to protect the environment and U.S. jobs. However, when the rules are unbalanced, I will urge the EPA to consider other approaches which will achieve similar improvements for the environment without exacting such an unnecessarily high cost on American workers and the U.S. economy.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Line of candidates already forming for Secretary of State

The fact that the Secretary of State's office is likely to be an open seat in next year's election of state officials has not been overlooked by several prospective candidates who are already gearing up for the race.

As most Mississippians probably know by now, Secretary of State Dick Molpus is planning to seek the Democratic nomination for governor in 1995, leaving the way open for someone else to succeed him in his present job.

Thus far, at least four hopefuls for the post have emerged on the Democratic side. Nothing has been heard yet from any Republicans who may be seriously considering that race.

The four Democratic prospects are of remarkably high calibre from the standpoint of educational background and previous accomplishments, an indication that state office is attracting quality candidates, despite the low esteem the public is alleged to hold for political office.

Also, two women are among the top aspirants, a hopeful sign that Mississippi could improve its poor record of electing women to state office the past several decades.

The four prospective Democratic candidates to succeed Molpus include: state Rep. Eric Clark of Taylorsville, a 14-year veteran in the Legislature; Gay Huff, of Jackson, who recently resigned as Jackson's city clerk; state Sen. Amy Tuck of Starkville, who won her Senate seat in 1991; and Royal P. Walker Jr. of Jackson, first director of the Mississippi Gaming Commission.

Clark, 42, has been noted as a progressive leader in the Mississippi House where he was one of the key figures in bringing about the 1987 democratic rules reforms which led to the downfall of powerful House Speaker Buddie Newman.

He holds a doctorate in American government from Mississippi State University and has taught government at Millsaps College and Mississippi College. In Smith County, he manages the family tree farm.

A strong proponent of public education, Clark had been a sponsor of the 1982 Education Reform Act, and was the chief architect of the Education Trust Fund established in 1990 into which all mineral royalties on state land are now deposited.

Huff, making her first political race at age 60, can aptly be described as a "late bloomer" in her life. After working for years in the clerical staff of the state Senate, (where she was highly regarded for her competence) she began working on a college degree at Millsaps in 1982, and by 1989 she was among the first students to be inducted in Phi Beta Kappa — at age 55.

She had meantime studied for a year at Oxford University in 1988 under a Millsaps scholarship, specializing in 18th century philosophy and literature, and under a National Endowment for the Humanities scholarship. The past four years she served as clerk and voter registrar for the city of Jackson, resigning recently to begin campaigning for Secretary of State.

Tuck had become the youngest woman ever to serve in the Mississippi Senate when at 27 she won a special election in January, 1991 to fill the unexpired term of the late Sen. Bill Harpole. Her election, over several strong male opponents, was considered an upset and marked Tuck as a comer in state politics.

A lawyer and junior college teacher, Tuck quickly gained respect in the Senate and now serves as chairman of the Senate County Affairs Committee. Tutored by her politically astute brother, Al Tuck, now chief deputy to state Auditor Steve Patterson, she has developed good ties with county officials, and already has attended a myriad of functions statewide.

Walker, 34, had been named in 1991 by then-Gov. Ray Mabus as executive director of the newly-established State Gaming Commission. Despite some skepticism over his relative youth and lack of background in the gaming industry, Walker won high marks in the industry for getting Mississippi off to a sound start in gaming regulation before giving up the job.

An African-American, Walker is a native of Drew, who won a law degree from Texas Southern University. His first taste of politics was working in the 1983 gubernatorial campaign of Evelyn Gandy, later for Mike Espy.

Walker, an Espy-style white-black coalition player, has been teaching disability law courses at the University of Southern Mississippi and doing grantsmanship for USM the past couple of years.

The race for Secretary of State may be more than a year away, but the line is already forming, and there's a good crop in prospect.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

MEC joins fight against crime

During a general assembly meeting of the members of the Mississippi Economic Council, Attorney General Mike Moore gave the audience of business and professional leaders a grim picture of the typical youth offender terrorizing the streets of today's Mississippi.

It's a shocking profile of mere children who are quickly becoming the most violent and vicious members of society.

They are children who, for most of their lives, have been ignored by the ones who could be raising them well, but for one reason or another are failing to do so.

In their communities, the lessons these growing adolescents are learning are being taught by common criminals rather than by law-abiding parents and community leaders.

Their communities once were only small pockets surrounded by tranquil neighborhoods where an occasional bicycle theft was the news of the day. But now these pockets have swallowed entire neighborhoods and soon, if nothing more is done, they will be swallowing entire cities.

The Mississippi Economic Council has made the commitment to focus on this issue during its new fiscal year with a more intense effort than ever before.

MEC's agenda for the year — its Program of Work — calls for its membership leaders to identify steps for controlling the state's growing crime rate. MEC will do so.

But MEC would like to reiterate the message of Attorney General Moore by saying that there will never be a substitute for the positive role of parents, neighbors and others within these troubled neighborhoods when it comes to making a lasting impact on a young person's life.

TOUGH TALK

That's what you seem to hear from all the candidates for Appellate Court Judge. They talk tough because they know the public wants to hear it.

However, only one candidate has a tough track record.

Judge James Thomas spent 8 years as Assistant DA, then 12 years on the Circuit Court bench. During that time, he forged a reputation for protecting the rights of victims, sending thousands of criminals to jail. In fact, he sentenced criminals to maximum imprisonment so often that he earned the nickname "Ten Year Thomas." Now, as Appellate Court Judge, Thomas can make sure the criminals he sentenced to jail, stay there.

"As a former prosecutor and active trial judge, I've seen criminal cases drag on for too long on appeal, only to have the criminal end up back out on the streets. I ask that you elect me Judge to the Court of Appeals so I can put a stop to needless delays and ensure that the victim sees justice."

James Thomas is the only sitting judge in the race, and the only candidate endorsed by the Mississippi Prosecutors Association.

On Tuesday June 7th, Vote for Judge James Thomas, the man who delivers more than tough talk.

- 12 Years as Circuit Court Judge with Second Circuit Court District
- 8 Years as Assistant D.A. with Second Circuit Court District
- Special Assignment as Judge for the Mississippi Supreme Court
- Past Chairman of Circuit Judges Conference of Mississippi
- 2 Years of Private Practice
- Graduate of Ole Miss School of Law
- B.S. in History and Political Science from U.S.M.
- Member of the American Bar Association, Harrison County Bar Association, American Judges Association, Board of Governors, Mississippi Judicial College
- 44 years of age. James Thomas resides in Biloxi with his wife, Sue, daughter of Paul (deceased) and Jewel Gatewood of Collins, Mississippi. They have two daughters, Tiffany and Kelly.

Mississippi Power, ready for season

Before the coming of the hurricane season, Mississippi Power has been busy preparing for the worst. One of the company's top priorities is to ensure that its customers are protected from the damage that can be caused by a hurricane. Careful planning and complete preparation before a storm develops is the best way to ensure survival and a rapid return to normal living after a hurricane.

In the past 25 years, hurricanes have caused more than $27 million in damages to Mississippi Power lines, poles and substations, leaving thousands of customers in the dark for days.

Although Mississippi was spared a direct hit from Hurricane Andrew in the summer of 1992, the remnants of that storm left nearly 25,000 Mississippi Power customers in Hattiesburg, Laurel and Meridian without power.

The growth of the gaming industry has increased the number of tourists and residents on the Coast, making thorough preparation vital.

With the arrival of the summer hurricane season, the Gulfport-based utility prepares itself for the worst and puts employees into a state of readiness.

"The company respects hurricane season enough to maintain a detailed disaster plan," George East, Mississippi Power's manager of system operations said. "The basis of our planning is to be prepared with equipment and manpower to restore electricity as soon as possible after a hurricane."

Since 1969 three major storms—Camille, Frederic and Elena—have scored direct hits on Mississippi Power's service territory. Other storms such as Juan, Beryl and Andrew have made themselves felt as well.

When Hurricane Elena left more than 82,000 Mississippi Power customers without power in 1985, the utility put its comprehensive disaster plan into action. The utility was able to restore service to its customers in just six and one-half days. Following Andrew, the company sent restoration crews to help repair the devastation in Louisiana.

The company's disaster plan includes safety precautions and detailed instructions for personnel to follow before, during and after the storm. Mississippi Power also checks its materials stock and the condition of all equipment, tools, radios and communications systems, all of which are vital in power restoration efforts.

In the event of an approaching hurricane, essential personnel assemble at the company's storm center located in the Hancock Bank Building in Gulfport. Restoration efforts are coordinated from this center.

During and after a storm, company employees pitch in and do whatever it takes to get the job done. Managers answer telephones, accountants feed line crews, and administrative assistants help inventory incoming supplies.

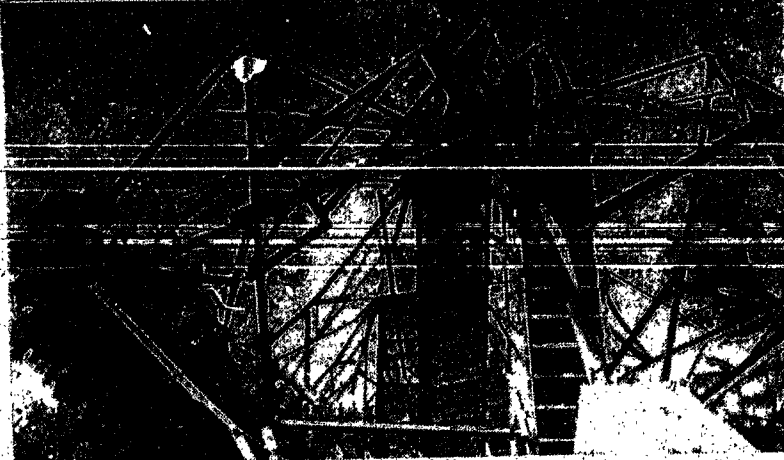

"Our hurricane preparedness plan is like an insurance plan. In the event of an emergency, we rely upon it to get back in the business of providing electricity," East said. "Every hour a customer is without electricity, we are losing business. So we want the power restored as much as our customers do."

Another aspect of disaster planning is making arrangements for other utilities to send crews and equipment to assist Mississippi Power if there is heavy storm damage to its facilities. As a member of The Southern Company, Mississippi Power would first contact its sister utilities—Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power and Savannah Electric—for additional crews.

If crews from these companies are not available, Mississippi Power can get assistance from other neighboring utilities under mutual assistance contracts. After Hurricane Elena, more than 1,000 extra workers from nearby utilities helped in the restoration effort.

"Unfortunately, Mississippi Power probably has more experience in hurricane restoration than most utilities," East said. "We expect that experience to pay off the next time a hurricane threatens our service area."

"Hurricanes are natural to our region—we can't do anything about that. But we can be prepared to restore electricity as quickly and safely as possible after the next one."

Hurricane damage

Mississippi Power serves more than 181,000 customers in 23 counties in southeast Mississippi. Mississippi Power is a member of The Southern Company which serves more than 11 million people in the southeastern United States.

HURRICANE

PREPARATION

A family's plan of action will ensure its safety. Taking proactive steps to prepare for this year's hurricane season will remove a lot of stress in dealing with the trauma of a natural disaster.

Here are some safety tips to help prepare for an evacuation in the event of a hurricane.

- Keep automobiles full of gas during the hurricane season. Gas lines will be long if people are ordered to evacuate.

- Remember to bring an ample supply of any prescription medicine a family member requires.

- Have a three- to five-day supply of non-perishable food and enough water (two quarts of water per day) for each family member. Remember a manual can opener.

- Have a pre-arranged place to which the family can travel and a telephone number there in the event of evacuation. This will help in case the family gets separated. Leave at first notification to avoid traffic jams.

- Purchase extra supplies such as flashlights, batteries, containers to hold water, candles, hand-held radios, paper plates and plastic utensils.

- Have all important papers such as birth certificates, insurance policies, marriage licenses, immunization records, family photos, etc. in one easily accessible place so they can be located quickly.

MISSISSIPPI POWER HURRICANE INFORMATION

Summer program kicks off

Puppets and face painting will kick off the 1994 Summer Reading Program sponsored by the Hancock County Library System.

The Puppet Arts Theatre of Jackson will present The Princess and the Pea in two performances Wednesday, June 8, in the Coast Electric Power Association Auditorium, Main Street, Bay St. Louis.

The first performance, for day care centers and preschoolers (reservations required) will be from 9 to 10 a.m., while the second show, open to all school-age children (no reservations required) will be from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The performances, sponsored in part by a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission, a state agency, and the National Endowment for the Arts, are a fast-paced introduction to puppetry with an easy-to-follow demonstration of puppet making, using plain styrofoam balls and other ordinary materials to create a technically complex character.

The main feature of the program, a famous story written by H. C. Andersen, The Princess and the Pea, will be presented by the Puppet Arts Theatre set to music of Rossini and presented as a farce performed with the puppeteers in full view of the audience, manipulating the marionettes.

The Puppet Arts Theatre is under the direction of Peter Zapletal, a graduate of the Academy of Performing Arts in Prague, Czechoslovakia, majoring in puppetry, and an award-winning television producer whose specials have been seen nationwide on PBS.

Zapletal and Jo Ann Robinson are the puppeteers. Robinson has appeared in many productions at The New Stage in Jackson, Arkansas Repertory Theatre and on the Mississippi Educational Television.

Victory and Sonshine, the clowns, a mother-son team, have been performing together for more than six years. They will be kicking off the summer reading program at the Kiln and Waveland libraries with face painting.

The clowns will be at the Kiln Library Tuesday, June 7 at 1:30 p.m., and at the Waveland Library on Friday, June 10, at 10:30 a.m.

The two professional clowns have entertained all along the Gulf Coast and can be seen weekly at Cucco's Restaurant and Ryan's Steak House blowing up animal balloons and skating around the tables. Sonshine is 12 years old and just graduated from Orange Grove Elementary School.

Summer reading program participants must visit the branch of their choice at least four times and check out at least six books between May 23 and June 29.

A reading record will be provided each child. A certificate and goodie bag will be presented each participant completing the program.

Awards will be presented the week of July 5.

In order to register, children must come to the branch of their choice, complete their reading record, set their goal and confirm that their parents have a current library card.

A library card is required to check out any books, and car holders must be 18 years old and have the necessary identification.

For information, call Janice Parrott at the City-County Library, 467-5282; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; or Evelyn Necaise, Waveland Library, 467-9240.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, JUNE 5, 1994

Color Guard

Cadet activities for 1993/94

Special to the Echo

The cadet corps at Bay High School completed an event-filled initial year of activity with the completion of graduation ceremonies May 27.

Beginning operations with the onset of the 1993/94 school year last August, the program seems well established with preparations underway for an even busier 94/95 school year.

Establishment of an Air Force Junior ROTC program at Bay High School is due in great part to the perseverance of Bay-Waveland Superintendent Paul Tisdale, formerly of Biloxi High School, at which he saw firsthand the positive influence such a program has on the overall tenor of a school's day-to-day activity.

At the suggestion of former Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman, General Colin Powell, an expansion of all service Junior ROTCs was approved by the U.S. Congress to begin in 1992.

Given the opportunity, Tisdale successfully lobbied for award of a program to Bay High, one of approximately 120 new Air Force units launched last year.

The mission of Air Force Junior ROTC is to build better citizens while acquainting students with the military services with particular emphasis given to manned flight.

The program is an obvious benefit to those seeking entry to the services following high school, but it is also highly beneficial to those students who seek other career paths.

Coursework for the first year, attended by a mix of students from the 9th through 12th grades, consisted primarily of a familiarization with flight through a historical perspective, as taught by the aerospace science instructor, Major Joe Mariotti Jr., a recent Air Force retiree.

This was accompanied by basic instruction in military protocol, health and fitness and drill by another retiree, Senior Master Sergeant James Thornhill Jr.

Future years of the program will see expansion of the AFJ-ROTC course offerings to include other facets of flight, aeronautics and military knowledge.

In keeping with the nature of the program, students wear Air Force regulation uniforms once a week on average, for which they are graded, and must conform to conservative appearance and conduct standards.

Certainly, this is quite a challenge for some in these times of heavy peer influence. At year's end however, Bay High cadets, other students and faculty alike commented on the positive effect and common pride all felt when the corps had its uniform wear days.

With an average enrollment of 85 students for the school year, many momentous events filled the time of Bay High's cadets.

Under the guidance of the unit's first commander, Cadet Lieutenant Colonels Robin Schambach and Kathryn Edwards, the cadets participated in three curriculum-in-action trips to sites of aeronautical interest, the Gulfport Air National Guard Base, the Naval Aviation Museum in Pensacola, and to Keesler Air Force Base for an orientation flight aboard one of the 53rd Weather Reconnaissance Squadron's WC-130 Hercules aircraft.

Many know this unit by its renowned nickname — "The Hurricane Hunters."

These trips were augmented by guest speakers who spoke on varied topics from aviation to career choices.

Many cadets also faced the challenge of joining the Cadet Drill Team or Color Guard and attended their first competition in April at the Biloxi Invitational Drill Competition.

Hosted by Biloxi High School's AFJROTC unit, the Bay High cadets garnered two fifth and one sixth place award while competing against a field of 16 other teams, many of which were veterans of such affairs.

Locally, the cadets participated in two parades, the Scottish Rites and Nereids Mardi Gras parades, and served as the color bearers during the opening ceremony of the Regional Special Olympics held at the Stennis Space Center in early April.

The MS-934 Color Guard also opened the Bay High Awards Day Ceremony of May 17 as well as the graduation ceremonies of May 27.

It serves well to note that several of the flags used by the color guard were donated by American Legion Post 139 of Bay St. Louis.

One cocurricular activity worthy of special recognition was the Awareness Presentation Team.

Comprised of 12 cadets under the direction of Morice Steber, teams of five to eight cadets presented skits and discussion concerning teen problems such as drug and alcohol abuse and negative peer influence to 8th grade homerooms and the middle school 7th graders.

In-house special activities included model aircraft construction and drill competency competitions. Individual awards were many.

Senior Kathryn Edwards, selected as the Outstanding Cadet for the year was the founding president of the Bay

"Angie" is a cadet who is always full of energy and ideas and will provide outstanding leadership as she assumes her duties.

New cocurricular programs slated for startup next year include a Model Aircraft and Rocketry Club.

This program received a boost with a very generous gift of a radio-controlled aircraft and accessories from Janet McQueen and Paul Gaskins on behalf of the Bay St. Louis office of the Martin-Marietta Corporation.

We again thank them for sponsoring our unit.

Casino Magic boxing presents: "D-day by the Bay"

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis has announced that former WBA world heavyweight champion Mike Weaver will take on Mexican Heavyweight Champion Ladislao Mijangos on June 6.

This fight is the main event of a six-bout undercard that will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the D-day invasion.

Weaver has a current record of 35-16-1 with 24 KO's. He won the WBA title in 1980 with a shocking, come-from-behind 15th round knockout of John Tate. He held the title for over 2 1/2 years.

Weaver is presently considered heavyweight champion by the fledgling International Boxing Authority. This fight on June 6 is a title bout.

Mijangos has a current record of 23-15 with 19 KO's. He is no stranger to the big names, having fought George Foreman, Tommy Morrison, and Tony Tubbs. He won the Mexican heavyweight title with a 6th round KO of Arturo Diaz in 1985.

The undercard showcases the pro debut of one the most decorated amateur boxers of recent years. Junior middleweight Classius Ali, formerly Wayne Blair, tallied an amateur record of 161-6 to go along with six national championships.

Other bouts on the undercard will pit Daryl Pickney against Albert Rendon, unbeaten Tony Bradham against Rick Farnum, Rickey Rogers against Ed Goins, and Humberto Arandas against Dennis Ardley.

Come and see "D-day by the Bay" at Casino Magic on June 6. Tickets are $25, $15, and $10, and are available at all Ticketmaster outlets and Casino Magic.

Softball tourney is Sat., June 11

WWL-TV personalities from New Orleans, WLOX-TV, Biloxi; Hancock County Lawmen Association, Stennis Space Center and Bay-Waveland Girls Softball League Boosters will play in a double elimination softball tournament Saturday, June 11 at Commagere Park beginning at 10 a.m.
